SOURCE

1. In the middle of June 1947, Colonel Michin, head of the SMA export trade department, told a member of the German Central Administration for Trade and Supply that the Soviets would soon install German commercial representatives in Lisbon, Oslo, Copenhagen, Bucharest, Prague, Belgrade and Athens. They were all to be commercial specialists and would be financed by the USSR. Schacht of the Central Administration for Trade and Supply was chosen for one of the posts.
